

...Empowering The Farmers...

Promotion of Farmer Producer Companies

Towards linking the Farmers Directly with Market for Profitability

Dr. E. VADIVEL Ph.D.,
Programme Co-ordinator
Small Farmer Agribusiness Consortium

ANNEXURE XVI & ALBUM - III

..... Farmers are the only category in the economy, who purchase every input at RETAIL RATE and sell the produce at WHOLE SALE RATE, thus be the loser at the both ends....

Hob'ble Chief Minister at Kanjamalai Pulses and millets Producer Company Ltd., stall at Salem

.....The Farmer producer company platform reverses the process by enabling the farmers to collectively buy all inputs at whole Sale rate and dispose the produce at Retail rate, ensuring profit at both the ends....

Collective farming is new and fruitful method

STAFF REPORTER

The aim is to shift from a production-driven extension to a market-driven extension. Farmers will come together and have value additions to their produce, according to E. Vadivel, State consultant for the collective farming project.

He was speaking at a State-level seminar on 'Collective Farming' at the Agriculture College and Research Institute, Madurai.

In the market-driven extension, the price and the demand of a product would be determined by the market.

Dr. Vadivel went on to explain that farmers in different regions would come together to form Farmer Producer Groups (FPGs) and cultivate the same crop in all regions. This would re-

E. Vadivel, State consultant for the collective farming project, addressing a seminar at the Agriculture College and Research Institute in Madurai on Saturday.

Farmers can buy machinery at cheaper rates and use it by formulating a system. Sophisticated technology can be put to use by Farmer Producer Companies (FPC) as the monetary sanctions available to them would be higher.

Some small-scale farmers like K. K. Kalyani from a FPC in Madurai, who has displayed mix, instant rice, mil, soups and "sathia maavu kari" (porridge) at the event. He said that the company had benefited from the collective farming method as yield had risen.

C. Murthy, Additional Director (Seeds), said that the introduction of this new farming was to double the income of farmers before 2020.
